THE ROYAL PARTY from Spain having seen Niagara Falls, is disappointed. So is everybody who sees Niagara Falls for the first time. SENATOR BORAH, who observes as you do, that the low price of silver has cut in two the purchasing power of 800,000,000 human beings, half the world's population, says something should be done for silver. As far as purchases from us are concerned, silver's drop has not cut the purchasing power of Asia and other countries in half, it has cut down buying 90 per cent. The first half of their spending power men need for absolute necessaries, food, clothing. The second half buys luxuries and machinery.

THE LOW PRICE of silver, in addition to holding the purchasing power of 800,000,000 people, has increased the national debt of the borrowing nations. They must pay gold and need twice as much silver to do that.

Something should be done for silver; probably must be done before prosperity really comes back. A metal that has been "good money" all over the world for 5,000 years cannot suddenly be thrown into the discard without economic suffering. The question is what can be done for silver and how can it be done?

Legislature Gets Ohio Tax Revision Plan

MANY CHANGES PROPOSED FOR STATE SYSTEM

Low Tax Rate on Intangibles One of Main Features of Revised Ohio Taxation.

TEN BILLS SUBMITTED

Motor License Change and Tobacco Levy Included in Recommendations.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 12 — The special legislative taxation committee presented 10 bills to the state legislature today comprising the entire program it recommends for revision of the Ohio taxation code as authorized by the voters in 1929.

The principal bill is that proposing a low rate on all classes of intangible wealth except tax free government securities.

Two other revenue producing measures are the motor vehicle license bill which would bring increased revenue from autos and trucks and a bill levying taxes on cigarets, cigars and tobacco.

The other measures are:

Constitutional amendment providing $5,000,000 bond issue for state welfare institutions.

Bill reenacting sections authorizing tax levies on real estate outside the 15 mill limitation by vote of the people.

Bill changing the setup of the state tax commissions in the hope of promoting more economical control of local expenditures.

Bill reducing incorporation fees on Ohio companies as an inducement to industry to incorporate in Ohio.

Bill providing for harbor improvements.

Bill governing collection of delinquent real estate taxes.

The committee estimated that this program will relieve real estate of about $10,000,000 in taxes and will make an equitable distribution of the tax burden on intangible property.

DEMONSTRATION STAGED

Oratory Condemning Capitalism Flows as Speakers Mount Statehouse Steps.

COLUMBUS, O., May 12—Ohio's hunger marchers, some 150 strong, descended upon the state capitol today and asked the general assembly for unemployment insurance.

The marchers, bearing all sorts of banners, filed in ranks of fours up Broad street to the statehouse. A committee of six went inside to make demands before a joint session of the assembly.

With several hundred onlookers present, those on the outside staged a demonstration on the statehouse steps, under the watchful eyes of Columbus police. The meeting was orderly and oratory flew thick and fast.

Speakers condemned the "capitalistic system" of Columbus, and asked, among other things, for free food and free school books. The outside speakers included Rose Clark of Cleveland, who was arrested the last time she staged a demonstration here for failing to display a flag; Boris Israel of Columbus; Mary Jacobs, 16, of Dayton; Ben Johnson, 10-year-old Cincinnati Negro; Thomas Nance Cincinnati Negro; John Smith of Toledo, and R C Lope of Columbus.

Many members of the legislature ignored the joint session and came out to witness the demonstration on the statehouse steps. Governor White agreed to confer with the same group shortly after noon.

GAMBLING CLEANUP ORDERED BY SHERIFF

Crawford County Drive on Devices Will Start Saturday, Vollmer Warns.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O May 12 'Clean-up" orders were issued this morning by Sheriff C Fred Vollmer of Crawford county.

In a warning this morning, Sheriff Vollmer announced that a war on gambling devices in Crawford county would be started Saturday. He said devices found in operation after that date would be confiscated.

Local ministers and the W. C T U here several weeks ago charged that gambling and vice was permitted to go on in the county without being molested.

In his statement Vollmer said that since his appointment as sheriff conditions have made it impossible for him to tour the county to ascertain conditions existing. He said that "cleanup" orders had been issued to members of his staff.

KENTON FARMER, 81, ROBBED BY 3 YOUTHS

Man Threatened with Death If He Revealed Robbery; Neighbor Calls Sheriff Hours After Holdup.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O, May 12—Three young bandits who robbed Isaac Slagle, 81-year-old farmer of north of here, of $175 and threatened him with death if he informed authorities are being sought today by the Hardin county sheriff.

First information of the robbery reached authorities last night, 24 hours after Slagle was held up at his home. Tell Winebrenner, a neighbor, called the sheriff after Slagle revealed details of the robbery.

Questioned by authorities, Slagle said that it was the second time in the last year that he had been robbed. He was threatened with death when he was held up a year ago and robbed of $2,000. Sheriff Ansley believes that the same men robbed Slagle both times.

Three youths appeared at the Slagle home Sunday night and asked to use the telephone. When informed there was no phone in the house they requested a drink of water. Slagle complied and upon his return one of the bandits carrying a gun forced him to turn over his money.

The aged farmer was compelled to return to bed. His shoes were removed and his legs bound with rope. The youths said they would "bump him off" if he reported the affair to authorities.

Talking to Winebrener Monday afternoon, Slagle told of the robbery. Officials were called and an investigation launched.

Finney's companion, who escaped to Columbus by hiring a Marion county farmer to drive him to that city, was still being hunted today.

Unable to pay his fine, Finney is now in the Crawford county jail

Death Takes Eugene Ysaye, Famous Master of Violin

By The Associated Press

BRUSSELS, May 12 — Eugene Ysaye, who broke most of the traditions of the violin to become one of the world's great masters of that instrument, died at 4:30 a. m. today after a long and wearing illness. He would have been 73 years old July 16.

Death came two months after one of the greatest triumphs of his career as a musician, the debut of his opera, "Peter the Miner," written in Walloon dialect, at Liege last March. He himself was unable to attend, but Queen Elizabeth, who did go, arranged a radio broadcast so that he could hear the opera from his bed.

As early as the middle of 1928 Ysaye was suffering from diabetes phlebitis, and a year later had to undergo amputation of his right leg. He seemed to recover but late in 1930 became ill again. At the time of presentation of his opera he was thought to be on the road to recovery but recently took a sudden turn for the worse from which he never rallied.

Ysaye was known for the original style of his playing and sometimes was called a musical colorist. He terminated his engagement as conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra in 1919 after dissession had arisen among the members of alleged favoritism to certain musicians.

The immediate cause of death was heart disease. Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians, who visited the violinist regularly during his illness, was the first to pay homage to his memory.

He is survived by his American wife, the daughter of Dr. Hermann Dincin, a physician of Brooklyn, N. Y., whom he married in 1927. Miss Dincin was his second wife.

FARM YOUTH CONFESSES TO DOUBLE KILLING

Says He Slew Ohioan and Wife, His Employers, in Dispute Over Pay.

TELLS STORY OF CLASH

Canton Police Hear Ray Wilts' Account of Hatchet Slaying.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O May 12 Authorities announced today that Ray Wilt 17-year old farm hand, has confessed he killed Edward B Thomas 46 invalid farmer and his wife, Ethel 44

The bodies of Thomas and his wife multilated with a hatchet, were found in a small clothes closet in their farm home near Waynesburg Sunday They had been dead about a week Wilt was captured while traveling in the Thomas automobile near Minerva, O., late yesterday.

Officers said Wilt, who had worked for Thomas, claimed he killed the couple because Mrs Wilt made him mad by "holding out part of my pay for an old suit Thomas gave me."

Authorities quoted Wilt as saying "Mrs. Thomas owed me $33 for four days' work She wanted to give me $21, withholding $12 for the old suit I said I wanted all the money because the old suit wasn't any good. We got in an argument I tried to take the $12 and there was a struggle. She came at me with a hatchet. I took it away from her.

"Then Mrs. Thomas tried to hit me with a broom. I dodged and swung the hatchet I had just taken from her. When she fell Thomas pulled himself over to the kitchen table on his wheel chair and grabbed a butcher knife. He was paralyzed and couldn't do much, so I hit him too

"I hit both of them over the head with the hatchet. Thomas was dead when I finally realized what I had done. I wrapped an overcoat about Thomas and carried him across the kitchen and into a first floor bedroom and dumped his body in a closet. Mrs. Thomas was still groaning. I wrapped a coat around her and threw her in the closet with Mr. Thomas.

"After the murder I went outside and packed some canned fruit and some live chickens which Mrs. Thomas had given me into the Thomas automobile. As I was ready to leave mother came along the road and I hauled her home.

"On the following Wednesday I went back to the Thomas home and took a radio and cedar chest which Mrs. Thomas had given me. I sold the radio to a dealer in Carrollton for $4 and gave the cedar chest to a girl I was going with near Carrollton."

Wilt in an earlier confession made at Carrollton, where he was arrested at the home of a friend said his father, Henry Wilt, killed Mr and Mrs Thomas

"I hid the bodies and cleaned up the muss in the kitchen,' Wilt said in this first confession

He changed his story when his father and mother were brought in to face him

"Dad didn't do it" Wilt said "I don't like dad, that's the reason I lied I didn't do it either but I know who did."

After an all night questioning Wilt finally admitted that he killed the couple unassisted, but insisted that it was in self defense. He will be questioned further this afternoon.

25 FREIGHT CARS PILED ON TRACKS

CRUSHED BY STEEL

Officials Believe Broken Arch Bar Caused Derailment.

Two men were killed and damage approximating $50,000 was done when 25 freight cars of a westbound Big Four train were derailed and piled up two miles east of Martel late yesterday afternoon

Bodies of the two victims, both train riders, were found early this morning while wreckage was being cleared away. Whether there were other victims will not be known until late today when removal of the debris from the tracks has been completed

Cars Destroyed

Practically all of the 25 cars derailed were destroyed. Wood cars were splintered, while metal gondolas were twisted and torn beyond repair. Cargoes of seven loaded cars were badly damaged.

Railroad officials today were investigating the cause of the derailment. It is believed that a broken arch bar caused the trucks of one of the cars to leave the tracks. The derailed trucks skidded along the tracks more than a mile without doing much damage until the dragging parts caught on a switch.

At some places, the cars were piled two and three deep on the tracks, while others were overturned over the banks along the right of way.

Find Papers

Papers in the clothes of one of the dead men may lead to his identification. The papers consisted of a night pass issued by the Western Electric & Manufacturing Co. of East Pittsburgh, to Noble C. Sharp, and a letter addressed to Joseph Sharp at New York City, general delivery. The letter was postmarked in Dayton on April 30, and was signed "Ruth."

No means of identifying the other victim, a Negro, were found when the bodies were brought to the C E. Curtis Co. mortuary here. A can of massage cream, a safety razor, and 70 cents comprised his possessions.

Both men were riding in the front part of a gondola loaded with large pipe. When the cars piled up, the pipe was thrown forward, pinning them against the front of the car. Acetylene torches were used to burn the twisted pipe away from their bodies.

Rebuild Track

The 500-foot section of Erie track torn up by the derailment was to be restored for service shortly after noon today. The wreckage was thrown off the tracks into the right-of-way, and the track was rapidly rebuilt.

Erie wreck crews from Kent and Marion and Big Four division headquarters at Bellefontaine were at work early today. The Marion crew returned to the yards here this morning after the arrival of the Kent crew.

The 25 derailed cars were located in the front section of a 90-car train, local railroad officials said.

The car first derailed by the broken trucks catching on the switch severed connections with the one immediately in front of it. Breaking the connection set the emergency air brakes, which locked the wheels on all cars in the rear. Twenty-five cars had been derailed and piled up, however, before the cars in the rear had been brought to a stop. The speed of the train westbound was estimated at between 45 and 55 miles an hour.

Used Jointly

The Marion-Galion section of the Erie and Big Four tracks are used by both companies as a double road, accounting for the operation of a Big Four train on the Erie tracks.

The Big Four track over the same route remained open at all times, handling all traffic.

Train wreck crews began removing wreckage at 8 p. m.

The locomotive and remaining undamaged cars in the train were removed immediately, and the crews began clearing and rebuilding the track.

Strewn among the wreckage was a part of the shipments on the seven loaded cars. Large pipe, coils of wire, and some building material is included in the damaged shipments.

Hundreds of persons from Marion and surrounding towns visited the scene of the accident last night and this morning.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS, not personally "wet," and an excellent citizen, says editorially that this country to end crime doesn't need more laws, it needs to get rid of one law - prohibition.

Emphatically, Mr. Curtis says, "Prohibition finances crime"

That, unfortunately, is the fact; at least, bootlegging finances crime and on a scale that runs, not into millions, but billions, of dollars every year.

The idea that bootlegging can be ended while prohibition endures is, of course, childish.

PRESIDENT HOOVER plans to cut $345,000,000 from government cost. This would reduce considerably the billion deficit now faced

It is said by "experts" that the size of the army cannot be reduced, 118,000, now on the payroll, being "the lowest number consistent with safety."

The country used to get along with 40,000 men in the regular army. Have the people become more dangerous or rebellious? What is it that makes 118,000 men necessary in this age of flying machines, every sensible man knowing that soldiers on the ground, unless hidden in armored tanks, would be absolutely worthless in a war?

the night, but not before 10 churches, convents, monasteries and other ecclesiastical buildings had been burned to the ground while the mobs held off firemen and prevented their fighting the flames.

A nationwide checkup showed 21 church buildings destroyed by fire, and perhaps 10 more badly damaged but not burned. Inmates of the buildings in every case fled, and while a few monks and priests were beaten there were remarkably few casualties among them Nuns in almost every case were respected by the crowd Estimates on the number of religious workers fleeing Madrid alone ran 50,000.

Damage Estimate Indefinite

Efforts to estimate the physical damage throughout Spain were mere guesswork, but some calculated it as high as 150,000,000 pesetas (normal value $30,000,000). This did not account for priceless manuscripts, church services, paintings and vessels which were destroyed or stolen. Police arrested several rioters on whom they found gold and silver altar ornaments, chalices and candelabra taken from the churches.

In a radio broadcast, Don Niceto Alcala Zamora, president of the republic, called upon the nation to put down the disorders. The government charged communists and monarchists with responsibility for the disturbances and declared they were in connivance to embarrass the new regime.

LEGISLATURE GETS TAX PLAN REPORT

Motor License Change and Tobacco Levy Included in Recommendations.

mittee said, by abolition of the personal property tax on household goods.

When the uniform rule was repealed by the adoption of the tax classification amendment the old rate on intangibles, which was conceded to be discriminatory and evasive, went out of existence and the sum of $22,750,440 had to be replaced.

In addition to this the committee's elimination of the personal property tax on household goods and automobiles made additional sums of $1,797,870 and $4,879,100 respectively to be replaced. The committee also reduced the yield on tools, machinery and livestock by placing them at 50 per cent of book value, thereby losing another $1,000,000 The total of these sums was $30,427,410

The classification amendment also repealed extra levies on real estate for libraries and county roads, amounting to $10,000,000.

To Cover Losses

To make up for all these losses the committe devised its recommended program and estimated that the yield would be:

On intangibles, $27,000,000.

On motor vehicles, an additional $12,000,000 by increasing the classifications of horsepower and by raising the license fees to a scale ranging from $7 to $25, plus a substantial increase in the license fees on trucks. This would make a total of $39,000,000.

So much pertains only to the general taxes which go into the treasuries of the local subdivisions for their operation.

The tobacco tax, which is two cents on a package of 20 cigarets and 10 per cent of the retail price of other tobaccos would bring in about $8,000,000 a year or $12,000,000 during the remainder of this biennium, the committee estimated.

The money thus produced would go into the state treasury to meet a deficit which the state government faces. The committee said it has been advised by the finance committees of both houses that revenues accruing to the state will total around $58,000,000 while the budget for the biennium calls for $83,000,000.

The finance committees have shaved this budget to $7,300,000 including $4,000,000 for improvements at the welfare institutions, leaving a deficit in excess of $12,000,000. The tax committee recommended that if it is at all possible to make the necessary reduction in appropriations to take up this loss that such be done If it is not possible, the added revenue should come from a tobacco tax because that probably would be the least objectionable of any increase in business taxes, the committee said.

Would Restore Voted Levies

Among the more important of the 10 recommended bills is that re-enacting the sections which permit voted levies outside the 15 mill limitation on real estate.

There is much uncertainty as to what condition the local subdivisions will find themselves in after the current reappraisal of real estate values is finished. There also is some uncertainty as to the exact effect of the new tax program if it is adopted

If the voters retain the power to authorize extra levies on general property they will have that added means of paying any public expenditures they approve.

That the tax committee's program is going to meet with opposition in the general assembly is generally known. The biggest fight will be made on the intangible tax law in favor of a personal income tax.

The committee devoted most of its time to preparation of the intangible property bill It provides a rate of five per cent on the income on investments, two mills on bank deposits, five mills on capital invested by brokers, finance and insurance companies in intangibles and employed in business

The only tangible personal property which the committee would tax is that used in business, except domestic animals, boats and airplanes Tools and machinery used in business and manufacturing it decided should be taxed on a basis of 50 per cent of their values and other property on a 70 per cent appraisal.

The committee took cognizance of the complaints repeatedly brought to its attention during its many hearings from real estate owners who have been looking for a larger reduction in taxes

To this end it offered a general retail sales tax bill but did not recommend it. This measure would produce about $36,000,000 a year.

Every mill taken off real estate would cut taxes $12,000,000. If the three mills outside limitations now voted for school operating purposes in nearly every school district of the state were taken off real property the home owners would save $36,000,000

School officials plan to make a fight for the sales tax and an income tax as well

As an alternative or supplemental means of meeting the state deficit the committee offered a bill for a tax on soft drinks and syrups. This already has met with stern opposition from bottlers and druggists.

Wilda E. Goedicke has managed the cafeteria for the six years. She and Mrs. Wesley Selter have charge of the cafeteria although the domestic science class helps out by preparing various items for the lunches.

The lunch room will seat 72 persons at neatly painted chairs and tables. Food is prepared in a hotel range and served cafeteria style. The culinary department is prepared to serve a variety of dishes.

Shows Slight Profit

Impressed with the importance of sanitation and neatness, all students are required to wash their hands thoroughly before entering the dining room. Periodical "hand inspection" assures cleanliness.

The room is pleasantly trimmed according to the dictates of the interior decorating class, which prepared center pieces for the tables and curtains for the room

A sample 15 cent lunch consists of generous helpings of noodle soup, wafers, lettuce sandwiches, ice cream and wafers Another popular lunch consists of a large meatloaf sandwich with gravy, head lettuce salad, and strawberry shortcake with cream. Despite the sizeable lunches and food of the first quality, the cafeteria has sold 15 cent lunches at a slight profit during the last term. JOBLESS INSURANCE ASKED BY MARCHERS

Ohio Hunger Delegation, 150 Strong, Make Demands on State Assembly.

Ten were escorted to the senate gallery and five were permitted on the senate floor to present the demands of the unemployed.

Addressing the legislators as the "executive committee of the bosses" the speakers insisted that a tax be levied on all capital in excess of $25,000 and on income of more than $5,000 to provide funds for unemployment insurance.

They told the assembly that they did not expect their demands would be met and promised to be back later with hundreds of thousands of marchers to obtain their requests by force, if necessary.

Delegates declared for representation of the working classes in the administration of the unemployment insurance fund which, from the proposed sources of revenue, would total $25,000,000, they said.

They also demanded that governmental salaries be reduced to $3,000 a year, that laws be enacted prohibiting the eviction of any person unable to pay his rent or meet the mortgage on his home and that no taxes be levied against farmers whose income is less than $500 a year.

They attacked the American Federation of Labor as being non-representative of labor and protested against the treatment given the "hunger marchers" enroute by the American Legion and local authorities.

Call on Governor

After the session with the assembly, the rpresentatives of the marchers visited Governor George White and presented similar "demands." The governor took exception to the use of the word "demands" and said he would consider it a request. He said he would investigate the possibility of unemployment insurance, and would consider affording the marchers transportation back to their homes When the marchers demanded that the state force the city to release two marchers arrested for begging, the governor paid no attention He said he would look into the case of a marcher who was operated on at hospital after being stricken with appendicitis.

During the conference with the governor, the chief executive told the marchers' representatives that all recognized the fact that there was much unemployment and suffering, but that they must remember they are dealing with orderly government.

Adjutant General Henderson was ordered to look into the problem of transportation for the marchers

The legislature's decks were being cleared today for uninterrupted consideration of the taxation program to start later in the week.

Today and tomorrow, if necessary, will be devoted to consideration of special legislation, other than taxation, which was left over from the regular session, and other routine matters which may come up.

PREDICTS INCREASED POSTAL LOSS IN 1931

Assistant Postmaster Tilton Suggests Rate Boost To Curb Deficit.

By The Associated Press

LAREDO, Texas, May 12—A postal deficit of about $140,000,000 at the close of the present fiscal year was predicted today by Assistant Postmaster General Tilton in an address before the convention of Texas postmasters.

Tilton said this deficit would represent an increase of more than $40,000,000 over the $98,000,000 loss for the last financial year.

"The constantly increasing deficit in the postal receipts as compared with the postal expenditures has been the cause of grave concern," Tilton told the postmasters.

Explaining that while part of this deficit should not be charged against the post office department because it was due to the franking system, Tilton pronounced the present total so enormous as to defy adjustment for years to come unless postal rates should be raised.

Neither congress nor the public in general, Tilton said, had approved Postmaster General Brown's proposal of a 2½ cent first class postage rate, but he contended this method of the "most simple and positive" to overcome the deficit.

He also advocated a parcels post rate adjustment which would increase the revenue by approximately $7,500,000; and an increase in size and weight of parcels accepted for mailing which would bring in about $5,000,000 more. These two measures will come up for hearing before the interstate commerce commission during the latter part of May, he said.

Tilton held the general depression but partially responsible for the deficit.

150 OHIO MINERS GO OUT ON STRIKE

Several Injured in St. Clairsville Disorders Following Walkout of Workers.

By The Associated Press

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 12 Goaded by a jeering crowd of men, 150 miners employed at the Taplin mine of the Friends Coal Co at Bannock, near here, went on strike early today.

Deputy sheriffs experienced considerable difficulty in keeping the road to the mine open, and several were injured in a mele between miners attempting to go to work, and others who sought to prevent them.

Attempts to unionize the shaft and check weighmen at the mine were said by Sheriff Howard Duff to have caused the suspension.

Officials of the Austin Powder Co. at Bellaire, in the heart of the coal mining region, reported that several hundred pounds of dynamite and powder had been stolen Sheriff Duff assigned a number of deputies to hunt for the missing explosives, expressing the fear it might be used in connection with the labor disorders.

The strike at the Rosemary mine which started last week continued today, but officials said they expected little trouble there.

BURKE COUNSEL TO RESIST EXTRADITION

Attorney for Gunman Will Fight Ohio's Efforts To Try Killer.

By The Associated Press

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., May 12—Attorney Charles W. Gore, counsel for Fred Burke, revealed yesterday that he would resist efforts of Ohio authorities to extradite his client to stand trial in Toledo for murder.

Gore, who said he expected to confer this week with Burke in Michigan branch prison at Marquette, where he is serving a life sentence for the murder of Patrolman Charles Skelly, of St. Joseph, contends Burke cannot legally be extradited unless he is unconditionally paroled from the Michigan prison.

Although Burke has lost his citizenship rights, he is a ward of the state, Gore said, and called illegal the suggestion of Governor Wilber M. Brucker that Burke be turned over to Ohio authorities with a stipulation that he be returned to the Michigan prison should he be acquitted of the Toledo charge.

50-Foot Motor Boat Replaces Mayflower in President's Service

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 12—A 50-foot motor boat will be the flagship of Commander-In-Chief Herbert Hoover.

For several months the President has been without a boat he really could call his own. Early in his administration he ordered the presidential yacht Mayflower decommissioned and sold, and since that time he has depended upon the navy and other departments to provide transportation on the water.

But the navy now is fixing up a motor boat which was used on the battleship Arizona until 1929. Since then the small craft has been re-engined, outfitted and overhauled in presidential style.

Besides its crew of five the vessel as yet unnamed—will carry eight passengers. It has a galley, a small cabin and a canopied after deck where the President and Mrs. Hoover can sit with their guests.

Sleeping quarters are so limited the President probably will have to do most of his cruising in the daytime.

Alongside the 273-foot historic Mayflower, which burned and sank at Philadelphia last January, the new craft would be decidedly unimpressive. But it will be definitely designated as the boat of the commander-in-chief of the army and navy.

SCOUT CAMP PLANS RUSHED

Kenton Kiwanis Club Hopes To Open Project Sometime Next Month.

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 12—That the Boy Scout camp being planned by the Kiwanis club at Lake Idlewild park as one of its major projects for the year might be opened in June, was the statement made today by Attorney Charles R. Price, chairman of the Kiwanis scout committee.

A meeting has been called for Thursday night, at which time the Kiwanis committee will receive estimates on the cost of erecting patrol houses on the camp site and of installing other necessary buildings and equipment for the camp.

The Izaak Walton League of Kenton has offered the camp the use of their building at the Lake for use as a camp mess hall.

Recently the scout committee visited the Columbus Boy Scout camp at Delaware where they gained information relative to the establishment of a camp here.

While the Idlewild site is to be developed gradually, it is expected that numerous troops from northwestern Ohio cities will arrange their camp period there.

QUARTET OF GAMES IN S. S. LEAGUE NO. 1 ON SCHEDULE TODAY

Bishop-Lee Street Tilt Holds Major Interest of First Battles.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

An overabundance of rain having cancelled the original opening day's program of recreation ball games in the No. 2 Sunday school league yesterday, the No. 1 church circuit will attempt to stage the opening quartet of games today. The games are called for 6 p. m.

The Epworth Bishops, through no fault of their own, have drawn the spotlight of today's program The Bishops will clash with the Lee Street Presbyterians on the Garfield park diamond Lee Street has been the center of unlimited discussion since its brilliant season last year in the No. 2 Sunday school league. Now that it has been moved up into No. 1 league competition local recreation ball enthusiasts are anxious to see how well it will perform.

How stiff a test the Bishops will be able to give the Presbyterians is somewhat of a mystery. The Epworth entry did little last season except lose games but has been playing a much better brand of ball in practice games this spring The outcome of the Bishop-Lee Street tilt is rated here as just about a tossup.

Trailing the Bishop-Lee Street Presbyterian encounter in interest will be the Epworth No. 1 vs. Trinity Baptist game at Lincoln park, the St. Mary vs. Lutheran contest at the Steam Shovel and the Calvary vs. Epworth Senior battle at President's field.

The four games in the No. 1 league today are expected to inaugurate one of the toughest races in several seasons in the league. At least four teams appear in the running for the title with a couple more capable of stepping into the picture upon the slightest pretense of faltering on the part of any of the favorites

CONTRACT SIGNED

Cleveland Certain to Stage Title Fight July 3.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 12 — Any doubt that the heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmeling and W. L. 'Young" Stribling would not be held in Cleveland's new municipal stadium July 3 was removed today.

The contract was signed last night by city officials and the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio, organized by the promoters Closing of the deal came after the city council passed a resolution accepting a flat guarantee of $5,000 for the boxing commission instead of the usual six per cent of the receipts. The promoters also will pay a rental fee of $2,000, split even on concession receipts, and build 20,000 or more seats to remain the city's property.

Golden Gloves Champs Meet in Chicago Tonight

SPORTS

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

ALL along the front line of the No 2 Sunday school league today there is loud wailing because rain ruined the schedule of opening games for the league yesterday As for me however, I'm not so sure but what I am rather glad it happened that way. It probably saved any slight reputation I may have earned for naming probable winners. No one can say I didn't name the winners of yesterday's games At least not until they are played off on Wednesday By then I hope the public will have forgotten the predictions for the Monday games

Perhaps I should quit while my reputation remains unblemished. I always was a glutton for punishment though so here are the nominations for the games today in the No. 1 Sunday school league.

Epworth No. 1 to defeat Trinity Baptist by a close score; St. Mary's to give the Lutherans their first drubbing of the season, and Epworth Seniors to decision Calvary, the 1930 champs. Oh, I left one out, did I? All right then, the Epworth Bishops will beat the Lee Street Presbyterians. After you read that last one you'll realize I'm a born a optimist.

The four games of the No 2 Sunday school recreation ball league which were postponed yesterday on account of rain will be played off Wednesday at 6 p. m. Elmer Shaw, secretary of the city commission, announced today. They will be played on the regularly scheduled diamonds at 6 p. m.

What happened to Vosmik? That seems to be the question being discussed more in baseball circles than any other single issue. Is he just in the slump that almost invariably overtakes a rookie after he puts on a flashy stare or was he just another flash in the pan? It might be either but it's my guess that within a short time Joe will again be smacking the horsehide all over the American league parks. He probably won't bat at any .500 clip as he started out this season but he will at least have a respectable batting average

SEMI-FINAL BATTLE STEALS SPOTLIGHT OF WRESTLING PROGRAM

Carpenter and Marcelle Match Ends in Riot; Main Go Won by Bozinis.

BY KARL McELROY

When it came to this little matter of excitement, the semi-final of last night's wrestling card grabbed the spotlight from the scheduled feature battle between "Gentle John" Kilonis and Nick Bozinis

The match between Dug Marcelle and Ray Carpenter was a riot in fact it ended that way with Marcelle being declared the winner

Using a cradle hold, Marcelle pinned Carpenter to take the first fall in 28 minutes and Carpenter took the second with a tackle in 12 minutes.

The match ended in a general brawl when Carpenter tossed Marcelle outside the ring and then followed him to finish up matters Fans and police joined the referee in the fight that followed When things quieted down Referee Clete Kauffman declared Marcelle the winner.

Carpenter didn't like the decision and started to explain himself with action. He went after Marcelle like he meant business. Kauffman followed Carpenter backed by a couple of patrolmen and the match was stopped—officially.

The matter isn't settled yet. The boys started bragging in the dressing room and promoters seized the advantage of booking them for the main go of next Monday night's card This time it will not be a wrestling match. They will go into the ring for an eight-round boxing exhibition—the best man take all.

"Gentle John's" style was cramped in the final bout when Referee Kauffman barred his strangle hold Bozinis was awarded the first fall in 16 minutes and then captured the second with a cradle in 19 minutes.

WEATHER KEEPS A. A. GAMES AT MINIMUM

St. Paul Plays Only Monday Contest, Beating Toledo Mudhens 5-2.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 12 — With every club noticeably strengthened over last year, the American Association started its season with prospects of dispensing a lot of good baseball entertainment. The customers may yet see some of it—if the weather ever gives Thomas Jefferson Hickey's circuit a break

According to the schedule, which opened on April 14, each club should have played 27 games by today. Not one has come close to filling schedule requirements, with two teams, Louisville and St. Paul, nine games in the hole. Milwaukee has had the best luck, having played 21 of its listed games.

The only game yesterday resulted in St. Paul getting back the half game it lost Sunday. The Saints lifted their margin over Louisville to two full games by trimming Toledo, 5 to 2

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Henry Meine, Pirates—Held Robins to five hits, outpitched Dazzy Vance, to win 4-2.

Ossie Bluege, Senators — Clouted Tiger pitching for home run, double and two singles.

Phil Collins, Phillies Scattered Cardinals' seven hits and stopped their winning streak after eight consecutive victories, 2 to 1

Bill McIlwee, a right handed outfielder on the Maryland baseball team two years ago, is a winning left handed pitcher this season

Oklahoma City, in organized baseball for 25 years, has won but two pennants.

PHILLIES GET FEWER HITS THIS YEAR, BUT PRODUCE MORE RUNS

Shotton Uses New System To Bring Victories; Rain Hampers Schedule.

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Manager Burt Shotton has his Philadelphia Phillies using an entirely different system this season, and they are getting surprisingly good results

Last year the Phils went in for bushels of hits, including doubles, triples and homers, but they didn't score in proportion. The result was that they led the National league in hitting and were a strong eighth in the final club standing.

This year, however, Shotton has his boys going at it differently With such sluggers as Lefty O'Doul and Fresco Thompson gone, the 1931 Phils are not getting as many hits, but they are getting them where they count, leaving fewer men on base and winning more ball games

Five Hits Enough

For instance, they collected only five hits yesterday, but they cut off the eight-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1 Chuck Klein hit his sixth homer of the year to tie the score in the sixth inning Then big Buzz Arlett got on second and Less Mallon, rookie infielder, brought him in with a lusty double With Phil Collins turning the Cards back round after round, that was all the Phillies needed. Wild Hallahan was the victim of the winners' concerted attack

Their loss to the Shottonmen reduced the Cardinals' lead over the New York Giants to a single game. Cold weather at New York kept the Giants and Chicago Cubs indoors and gave Manager Rogers Hornsby of the western team an opportunity to speculate on what had happened to his hitters. He admitted that being held to eight hits in two games with the Giants was bad business, but denied a rumor that he planned to bench Hack Wilson, the hard hitting outfielder.

Robins Lose Again

Braving the chill winds on the opposite bank of the East river, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Brooklyn Robins got in the day's only other National league contest Heine Meine let the Robins down with five hits to give the Pirates their second straight victory, 4 to 2. The invaders bunched four hits off Dazzy Vance to score three runs and sew it up in the fourth

Only one American league tilt survived the epidemic of rain and cold, the Washington Senators burying Detroit under an avalanche of hits, 14 to 4. Ossie Bluege led the 18-hit assault on four Tiger pitchers with a homer, double and two singles. Kuhel had a double and two singles and Joe Cronin a homer and single Carl Fischer went the route for the Senators to score his third victory.

SIX HORSES ADDED TO STARTING LIST OF KENTUCKY CLASSIC

Sweep All Gains Favor Because of Fast Workouts; Fast Track Likely.

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12 Six eligibles for the Kentucky derby which have been training in Kentucky were entered today in the derby trial, at a mile and sixteenth, with Charles T. Fisher's Sweep All, a non-winner the favorite because of recent fast workouts.

Knebelkamp and Morris' Speed Play, winner of the Louisiana derby, was second choice The other entries were Pittsburgher, a winner as a three year old Prince D'Amour, the mongrel and Major Lamphier. Sweep All, Speed Play and Pittsburgher carried top weights of 115 pounds.

Fast Track Likely

A rainbow arched over Churchill Downs yesterday just after Mrs. J. N. Crofton's up had conquered a band of older horses in the feature race, his victory practically assured his starting in the $50,000 race Saturday. The Rainbow, amateur weather prognosticators said, gave promise of fair weather and a fast track for the derby for the first time in five years.

Six eastern eligibles arrived at the Downs yesterday to contest for the pot of gold. They were Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand, Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh, A. C. Bostwick's preakness winner, Mate; C. V. Whitney's Equipose and Walter J. Salmon's Ladder The expected arrival of Benjamin Block's Morstone Wednesday will complete the eastern invasion.

Workout Daily

The eastern eligibles will continue their training for the derby to workouts, with none expected to race until the big engagement Saturday.

The victory of Up, winner of the Augua Caliente derby, yesterday made him the third eligible to break into the winning ranks in Kentucky. The others that have won here are Pittsburgher and Boys Howdy, winner of the Cuban derby.

Three winners of 1931 derbies in all probability will face the barrier in the blue ribbon event of them all—Up, winner of the Agua Caliente; Boys Howdy, winner of the Cuban, and Spanish Play, victor in the Louisiana derby. The only other 1931 derby winner Lightning Bolt, which triumphed in the Florida event, is not eligible for the Kentucky derby.

Status of Wrestling in Illinois Before Board

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 12—The status of heavyweight wrestling in Illinois was up for decision today before the state athletic commission.

The commission had given Jimmy Londos, recognized in some parts as champion, 10 days in which to agree to a title match with Ed "Strangler" Lewis, recognized as champion in some other parts. In the event Londos declined to meet Lewis, Major General John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois commission, and president of the National Boxing Association, said heavyweight bouts would have to be billed as "exhibitions" and not "contests," in Illinois.

RAILS START NEW DECLINE

New York Central Slips into Red; Other Stocks Follow Drop.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK May 12—News that [illegible] trunkline railroad would earn its fixed charges for the first quarter of the year sent Wall Street another gloom today.

Prices slid slowly downward selling was in meager volume and short covering caused only a slight upturn in the early afternoon. Railway bonds were affected, taking some of the heavy cast out of the bond list. Foreign news was also unfavorable to bonds, particularly those of the new Argentine government in putting its financial house in order, and relieving the embarrassment of a large [illegible] Central, which reported a small deficit for the first quarter, fell off about four points from the year low. Atchison and Pacific preferred tumbled [illegible] six, and the common [illegible] Miscellaneous issues [illegible] two points or so including Delaware & Ohio. New York Central, Northern Pacific, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American International Harvester, Union Carbide and Columbian Carbon. Eastman Kodak and Eastman lost [illegible] U. S. Steel later canceled its loss, and other declines were modified. Case sold up four points in short covering and Chicago & Northwestern firmed on [illegible] of the regular dividend.

New York Central first quarter report showed a deficit of $144,913 after interest and charges, the first time in years that this premier carrier has slipped into the red. Advance estimates had been current for some time indicating that the road barely broke even, but actual publication of the figures was an excuse for selling.

The General Motors April sales report was encouraging, showing domestic sales to consumers of 135,663 or roughly 3,000 more than factory sales to dealer. The total to domestic consumers was 34 per cent over March, and only 6,341 under April of last year. Total sales to dealers, including overseas and Canadian, was 3,591 cars above the total of April, 1930.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Market prices showed but little change today. Supply of fruits and vegetables is plentiful. Home-grown asparagus is more plentiful and is selling at 10 cents a bunch while the California varieties continue to find a fairly ready market at 10 cents or three for 25.

Both green beans and peas are holding at 20 cents a pound or two pounds for 35 cents. Hothouse tomatoes are supplying the bulk of the demand at 35 cents a pound. Southern grown tomatoes are a trifle cheaper but the quality is not so good. Strawberries were not so plentiful today, a few were coming on that were selling at from 25 to 30 cents a quart. Both California and Florida oranges are selling at from 25 to 45 cents a dozen. The close of the growing season has caused an advance in this fruit.

EX-CONVICT PUT ON "SPOT" IN NEW YORK

Former College Man, Once Sing Sing Inmate, Shot Down on Street.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 12 — Roy H. Sloane, 30, ex-convict who acted as his own lawyer in successful efforts to get out of Sing Sing, was killed in front of Dyckman street cafe early today by shots from a passing automobile.

Sloane dragged himself along the streets for about 150 feet before he collapsed at a policeman's feet. He died without regaining consciousness.

A man and a woman in the cafe told police that four men drove up in a large sedan, shot Sloane and dashed away again before they could obtain the license number.

Sloane at one time was a student at Columbia university and Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa. He originally went to prison for stealing autos to obtain college tuition.

332 Persons Examined To Get Kirkland Jury

By The Associated Press

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 12—After 332 men and women had been challenged or excused, a jury of men was impaneled today to retry Virgil Kirkland for the murder of Arlene Draves, his companion at a Gary liquor party.

Prosecutor John Underwood immediately dismissed the first two counts of the indictment, charging murder by blows with a blunt instrument and with intent. It was on the latter of these that a jury found him guilty at a former trial and fixed his imprisonment as the penalty. Judge Crumpacker allowed a new trial because of insufficient proof of the charge on which conviction was voted.

GRAINS STEADY IN CHICAGO

Federal Farm Board Report Fails To Have Immediate Effect.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 12 — Unusual steadiness characterized grains early today. Word that the federal farm board had disposed of practically all the 35,000,000 bushels of wheat which it announced recently would be sold failed to have any immediate influence, being largely offset by positive reports that the 1931 domestic wheat crop would be marketed through usual trade channels. Opening ⅛c off to ⅛ up wheat afterward kept near to the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ higher and subsequently made additional upturns.

In some quarters, the inference was drawn that disposal of 35,000,000 bushels of out-of-position wheat by the federal farm board had long ago been discounted, and that stoppage of emergency stabilization measures by the board had also been fully allowed for as a market factor. Helping later to bring about fractional upturns in prices were reports indicating continued drought in Canada.

European advices emphasized scantiness of home grown supplies of wheat and the apparent necessity of liberal imports.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat firmness and were responsive to the fact that corn arrivals in Chicago totaled but 30 cars.

Provisions sagged owing to lack of demand.

BRITISH KING FINDS PAY TOO SMALL

By International News Service

LONDON, Eng.—For many years British women have been jocularly referring to Queen Mary's dresses as rather conservative and not up-to-the-minute in present day fashions. Queen Mary has never set the fashion in millinery, because she did not have a new hat every so often. Millions of women have wondered why the queen does not dress up more elegantly on occasions not official.

Now the secret is revealed. The plain truth is that she cannot afford to be extravagant. King George has been spending all but $10,000 of his entire salary in maintaining his kingly dignity.

Through an act of parliament in 1901, the annual allowance to the British monarch was limited. The amount was plenty at that time, but with the increased cost of living, it has shrunk so much that King George is drawing on his capital in order to make a respectable showing. His salary is not a set one. That is, he gets his wages every year by a vote of parliament. If it should happen that parliament should refuse to vote for the king's salary, he would have to go without wages for an entire year. The parliament can never oust the British monarch, but it has the power to starve him.

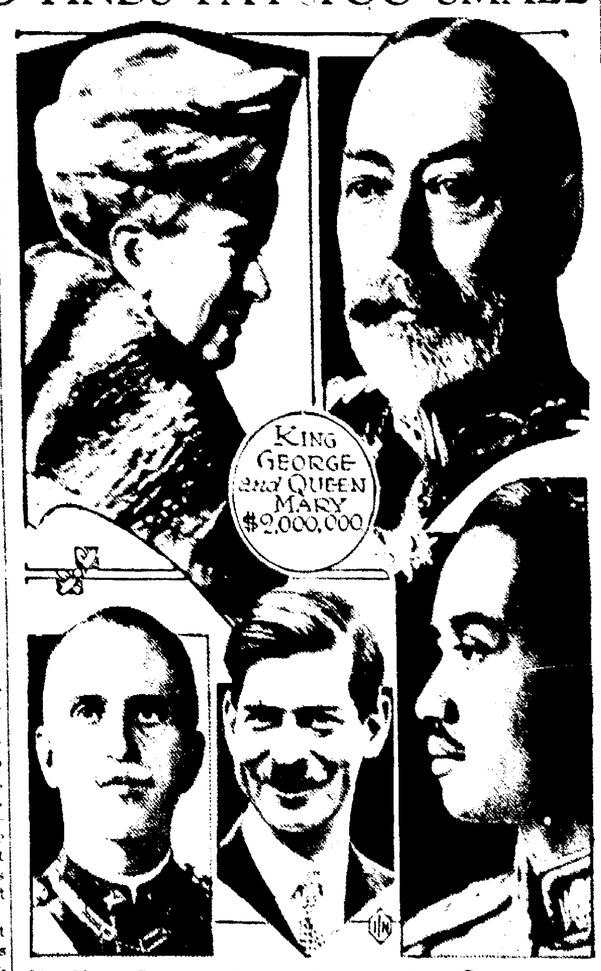
KING GEORGE'S yearly allowance is $2,100,000. He has to run his palaces, his grounds, horses, servants, chamberlains, cooks, ladies-in-waiting, and all such sundry necessities himself. When he pays his bills, he is a poor man. It is no wonder that Queen Mary has been making frantic efforts to cut down operating expenses.

Very few people realize that when the king travels he pays his own fare. Even very few in England know that when the king goes in special trains he pays exactly the scheduled rate. And British custom demands that when the king and queen travel they should travel in special trains.

Stupendous as the sum may seem which parliament hands out annually to the ruler of the British Empire, it is much less than that other less wealthy nations pay or paid to their monarchs. The king of Rumania's civil list is $4,000,000; Italy pays Victor Emanuel $3,900,000; the Czar of Russia received $20,000,000 a year while the ex-Kaiser's salary was $3,500,000. The king of Siam, now [illegible] to the United States with his queen, grubs along on a mere $8,000,000 a year.

If the depression in Britain continues another 10 years, many Britishers fear that King George and Queen Mary will have to apply for an extra "dole."



BANQUET GIVEN BY BIBLE CLASS GROUPS

Speeches and Musical Numbers Follow Dinner in Red Men's Hall.

Members of the Wonder Bible class of Calvary Evangelical Sunday school and a number of guests were entertained at a banquet last night in the Red Men's hall. Hosts for the evening were Dr. W. L. The banquet celebrated an attendance of more than 60 members of the class at the Sunday school services for five consecutive weeks. Covers were placed for about 80.

An enjoyable program followed the banquet, in charge of Dr. W. L. Johnson. A talk was given by Rev. Davidson of the Nazarene church and talks were given by Rev. E. Radebaugh, J. Luther Landis, Harvey Zachman and Sherman Haldeman, president of the class. Musical numbers included a group of songs by Rev. George Reep and Mrs. Reep of Green Springs, trumpet and vocal solos by James Wickersham accompanied at the piano by Pauline Zachman, cornet duet, two numbers by a brass quartet and a trumpet solo. Two important meetings in the organization of dozens of workers for the Community Fund drive beginning May 25 are scheduled for this week.

Organization of the men's territorial division, in charge of Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, colonel, today had progressed sufficiently to warrant the five majors, working as his aids, to call a meeting of their team captains at the Marion club Wednesday at 2 p. m. for the selection of team workers and the outlining of general plans. This division will canvass the uptown business district.

Each of the five captains for whom each major is responsible, is to name at least five workers each for his unit in the drive. These will be assigned definite territories.

Meantime, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, colonel of the women's territorial division, which will invade the residential section, announced that her captains will meet Friday at 10:30 a. m. at the Marion club.

Names of captains in the divisions have not yet been announced, as majors in both the men's and women's divisions have not completed the list.

Heads of all fund agencies met at Community Fund headquarters yesterday afternoon with Campaign Chairman Wilbur Symes and Director W. S. Edmund. Duties of the agency heads during the drive, including the assembling of material for window scenes for uptown stores to depict the activity of each agency, were outlined by Mr. Symes and Mr. Edmund.

Three divisions of the drive will begin work during the next two weeks leading up to the public appeal. They are the advance gifts committee in charge of H. B. Hane, the employes division in charge of A. W. Newby, and the foreign corporation division in charge of Morgan Burke.

Toledo Community Chest oversubscribed its goal this year. Total subscriptions in the Toledo drive were $1,082,349, or $7,000 more than the objective of the drive.

Marion Community Fund during the week of May 25 will campaign for $73,397.

STANDARD RATING SCALE for Electric Refrigeration

- Is the refrigerator manufactured by a reliable company with proper experience in the electric refrigeration field?
- Has it plenty of food and shelf space?
- Is the cabinet itself well designed, sturdily built and properly insulated?
- Is there provision for the freezing of an adequate supply of ice cubes? (Quantity of ice rather than number of cubes, which may be of large or small size, should be taken into consideration.)
- Will the refrigerator constantly maintain a proper temperature for the preservation of foods?
- Can the freezing of ice cubes and desserts be speeded up when the need arises?
- Can this extra freezing speed for ice cubes be had without affecting the temperature on the food shelves? (Too low a temperature on the shelves will, of course, injure food.)
- Is there a place to keep ice cream, meat, fish, game, "quick frosted" foods or extra ice cubes indefinitely at a below freezing temperature?
- Are these various temperatures (a. extra fast freezing; b. fast freezing; c. below freezing for storage; and d. normal food preservation temperature) automatically maintained without any attention from the owner?
- Does the refrigerating unit operate often or infrequently? (The fewer "stops" and "starts" the longer the unit will last and the less it costs to run.)
- How long will the cooling unit continue to cool the refrigerator even though the current is shut off? (Refrigeration should continue for 10 or 12 hours.)
- Can the back parts of all shelves, even the lowest, be reached without kneeling or sitting down?
- Has provision been made for keeping vegetables fresh and crisp?
- Can the refrigerator top be used to "set things down for a moment" while the contents of the cabinet are being re-arranged?
- Will the refrigerator add to the attractiveness of the kitchen?
- Has the experience of users over a long period of years proved the refrigerator long-lived and dependable?

This Woman in 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drugstore in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back. Henney & Cooper know all about Kruschen.—Adv.

GUN CLUB ARRANGES JACK RABBIT SHOOT

Special Event To Be Held Wednesday at Range East of Marion.

With its season already well under way, Marion Gun club is planning a series of shooting events to which the general public is invited, regardless of whether those attending the contests participate in them.

The first will be a jack rabbit shoot Wednesday at 3 p. m. Special preparation has been made to provide instructions for beginners, who will be taught how to handle guns to the best advantage, and who also will be made familiar with rules of trapshooting contests.

The club's grounds, located three miles east of here on Harding highway, are so situated that persons wishing to watch the shooters may do so without leaving their automobiles.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, May 13

RATHER a routine state of affairs must be predicted upon the negative lunar aspects bearing rule on this day. There may be trivial anxieties or complications in employment and a predisposition toward the rash, hasty and querulus may augment the inharmonies or friction of current events. However, business, correspondence, writing, etc., may be fairly lively and prosperous, but much depends on individual effort and self-control.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly prosperous and lively year, if they will center their activities and keep a firm watch on tongue and temper, since a tendency to rash, impulsive and irascible conduct may bring defeat. In employment this self-restraint is especialy enjoined. A child born on this day may be lively talented and adaptable but a possible predisposition toward impulsive, rash and quarrelsome behavior should be disciplined in infancy lest it prove a factor of undoing in later life.

RUN SHOP BUS

Lines Makes First Sunday Factory Trip in More Than Two Years.

Further evidence that the industrial situation of Marion is brightening was noticed Sunday. For the first time in more than two years, the Marion Rapid Transit Co. operators of the city buses, operated a shop run from the Marion Steam Shovel Co. plant. The shop run is solely for the purpose of transporting employes of the shops from the West Side. Increase in the working forces of the Steam Shovel company has necessitated the addition of the shop car.

Bus Line Refused Permission To Operate

A proposed inter-state bus line through Marion, has been refused permission to operate by the state utilities commission, Associated Press dispatches yesterday said. The commission ruled that adequate service over the route is now being furnished by railroads.

The route proposed by the Pennsylvania General Transit Co. extended between Pennsylvania and Indiana with Columbiana, East Liverpool, Alliance, Canton, Massilon, Mansfield, Marion, Kenton and Van Wert on the route.

Don Patton To Bring Ship Here After Completing Training Course.

Marion's second home-owned airplane is expected to arrive in this city Tuesday when Don E. Patton of 184 Leader street, who on last Friday closed the deal for the purchase of a plane, arrives at the Marion airport from Cleveland.

Mr. Patton who went to Cleveland last week, is awaiting the clearing up of the weather before taking off for Marion. The plane is a Challenger equipped with a 150 horse-power Comet motor and will accommodate three persons, two beside the pilot. It is of the open type with dual control and will be used to train students as well as taking up passengers.

Patton has recently completed a course in flying in Cleveland and has been given a commercial pilot's license.

RHEUMATISM IS PUT TO ROUT!

Consider, For Your Own Sake, How This Remarkable Compound Wins Its Victories

There is a real lesson in the experience of Mrs. Clara Binz, Route No. 6, San Antonio, Tex. She says: "I had rheumatism for seven years. Pains accompanied every movement. My stomach was weak. I bloated badly and lost weight steadily. Rheumatism left me after three weeks of the Konjola treatment. My appetite increased and I gained weight."

Mrs. Clara Binz

Now read the statement of Mr. J. R. Carlile, 303 South Ninth Street, Waco, Tex. "I suffered for three years with stomach trouble and rheumatism. The pain kept me awake at night. I bloated terribly. Konjola brought me almost immediate relief and today I am free from the pain of rheumatism or stomach trouble. I never hesitate to recommend this wonderful remedy to my friends who need a good medicine."

Mr. J. R. Carlile

Konjola is sold here by the Henney & Cooper Drug Store.

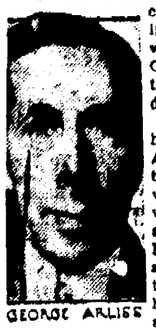
GEORGE ARLISS IN "THE MILLIONAIRE"

George Arliss, who has made three marvelous pictures, the most outstanding of which was "Disraeli," has made his first modern comedy "The Millionaire," which will show at the Ohio Wednesday through Saturday.



GEORGE ARLISS

As in "Disraeli," his wife, Florence Arliss again portrays his screen wife. They met when both were attending an English school of acting. This is the first time he has appeared in a light comedy role on the screen.

The cast includes David Manners, Evalyn Knapp, Noah Beery, J. Farrell MacDonald and Tully Marshall. J. C. Nugent who plays the part of a physician in this picture was born in Niles, O.

Arliss was born in London, England, April 10, 1868, the son of an English printer and publisher. This finished artist's first ambition was to be a circus clown. He came to America to stay six months but has remained for more than 25 years.

The Princess is presenting "Little Accident," Douglas Fairbanks Jr.'s laughing little comedy with Anita Page, Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts prominent in the cast.

The picture will play Wednesday and Thursday together with a comedy, "Brothers for Sale."

"TRADER HORN" SHOWS AT PALACE

Thrills, chills and suspense follow closely on the adventures of three white people in the jungles of Africa in the picture "Trader Horn" playing at the Palace tonight and Tuesday. This is a family picture. It is not an animal picture, nor a travel picture, but the story of two men and a woman told amid the terrors and beauty of wild jungle life.

Harry Carey portrays "Trader Horn." He and Duncan Renaldo, a young adventurer, set out to trade with a native. They meet a missionary, Olive Golden, who is going into the wildest part of Africa where she believes her daughter, stolen when only a baby, is the "white goddness" among the savage Isorgi.

Carey promises that if she dies in the attempt, he will carry on and rescue the daughter and send her back to civilization. The missionary is found dead, and it is the story of Carey and Renaldo eluding the savages after they have taken the girl away that brings the thrills. Edwina Booth is a lovely young white heathen who responds quickly to the ways of the white man, especially love making, for Renaldo is captivated by her charm.

The picture is worthwhile from every angle, and is heartily recommended. A Mickey Mouse comedy and newsreel round out the bill. H. H.

A loud laugh can be the mark of the villain as well as the smile and smile.

SYMES IS SPEAKER AT SCOUT LEADER MEET

Last Session of Training Course To Be Held at Camp Owens Saturday.

Wilbur H. Symes talked to ...men in the Boy Scout Leadership Training class last night on the subject on "putting the out in scouting." Scouting is an out-of-doors game," he said, mentioning the trees, birds, rocks, Indian relics and the lure of the camp fire as some of the things which should call to love of the out-of-doors more and more.

The training course will close Saturday with a meeting at Camp John A. Owens at 3 p. m. Those who have completed the course will be awarded certificates in a ceremony around a camp fire. The supper will be cooked out-of-doors.

Last night the program included a discussion of the scout uniform and its value and significance. The discussion brought out that the uniform symbolizes the unity and brotherhood of scouting, definitely identifying the boy as a scout, developing troop morale and encouraging loyalty to the ideals of the movement. Scout games were played, followed by group singing.

Thieves chiseled a bronze plaque from the stone front of the Chicago Municipal Contagious Diseases hospital, one night recently, and made off with it. We imagined that the City of Brotherly Love was the only population center where the populace slept so profoundly as herein indicated.

The $109,315 taken from the city treasury of Chicago on IOUs, checks and other "securities" during the preceding city administration, has been reduced to $40,304, but even at that there is no escaping the conclusion that the citizens up there will probably find that the war on King George cost them far more than it should.

The Spanish Situaion.

The burning of churches in Madrid and other manifestations of mob violence there and in other Spanish cities make evident that a considerable element which cried for the overthrow of Alfonso XIII was not so much interested in overcoming monarchal government as it was in overthrowing all government; that it feels the same toward the republic as it did toward the monarchy.

In other words, the communistic element, taking advantage of the thirst of some of the Spanish leaders for power which caused them to work for the undermining of the Spanish throne, became their allies in spreading propaganda and inflaming the Spanish populace to revolution, figuring that Spain, in the transition from monarchy to republic, would more easily be turned to communistic control.

If it did not realize it before, yesterday's violence brought home to the republican government that it must face the same red problem which was a constant thorn in the side of the monarchy. It at once declared martial law, and ordered troops into Madrid to quell disorder and protect life and property. If the newly-established government hopes to survive, it must speedily make plain its ability to preserve law and order. Failing in that, if it really is desirous of advancing the welfare of Spain and the Spanish people, as it has held out, it must admit its failure and ask the monarchists to join hands with it looking to the suppression of communistic activities and the preservation of orderly government.

And whatever may be the future of Spain in regard to its form of government, let us hope that the next few days will demonstrate that the red element there is no stronger than it is in some other European countries such as France or Germany—a minority element, forced by its lack of strength to confine its activities to its long-continued policy of striving to disturb orderly government, being unable to overcome it.

The Great Business of Diplomacy.

Secretary of State Stimson, during the course of the second of a series of cabinet talks to inform the people of the United States regarding what their administrative servants are doing, made a point of bringing out his conception of the great business of diplomacy. Happily, his conception of the chief business of his department, which naturally is that of the administration, is far different from many of the brands of diplomacy the world has known to its misfortune. It's the kind one has a right to expect from the head of the department of state of a republican form of government.

That which occupies most of the time, effort and care of the state department in Washington, the secretary of state and our ambassadors and ministers is the work they are doing day after day, in cooperation with the representatives of other nations, in endeavoring "to smoothe away sore spots and causes of misunderstanding and adjust the grievances which the citizens of one country may have against the government of another."

It is the kind of diplomacy that evolved from the diplomatic fiasco that precipitated the World war, a calamity that provoked millions to demand open diplomacy in defense of their common interest. It was small wonder after the black years of that catastrophe that the masses suspected diplomats of being in league with munitions manufacturers.

The new spirit of diplomacy was caught in President Wilson's announcement—in the first of his famous fourteen points—that henceforth "diplomacy shall proceed always frankly and in the public view." It can not consistently be otherwise in governments with democratic ideals, if diplomats are representatives of the masses.

Secretary Stimson's account of the work of his department closes with the following paragraph—a summary of the diplomatic ideals the present administration indorses:

"Though we have been passing through a period of storm, we have tried so to conduct ourselves that we shall emerge into sunshine on the other side with no scars and with the foundation laid for better international relationships. We are not departing from American traditions. We are carefully avoiding entanglements in the affairs and policies of other nations; but we seek to be guided by foresight and courage in moving toward an increasing cordiality with our neighbors in this hemisphere and toward the maintenance of peace in the world at large."

The motor car owners of New York state in 1930 paid in vehicle taxes and fees an aggregate of $72,295,412, an increase of $14,755,678 over the aggregate expenditure for the same purpose the year before. What is there in this to identify 1930 as a year of depression?

For a Saner Situation.

The use of alcohol by the human race constitutes a permanent problem, which the United States has attempted to solve by passage of prohibtion legislation. The attempt has not been entirely successful, because, although the legislation has alleviated certain public problems resulting from the beverage uses of alcohol, it has added others. The citizenry as a whole was not ready to go so far as the prohibitionists believed it would go with the passage of the eighteenth amendment. Perhaps there are certain phases of the problem that are too personal to be solved by regulation—ones that could better be approached by education.

Various organizations are attempting to instruct the public mind concerning the evils and benefits of prohibition laws. They deserve the enthusiastic support of a nation galled by massed evidence of growing crime, resulting from the present set-up.

Dean Clarence W. Mendell, of Yale, who advises Yale students to join the Crusaders, an organization founded by young men opposed to the prohibition law, has this to say:

"I believe in the organization of the Crusaders because I am confident that a thorough study of the problem is essential, and that such a study by the younger element in the country will eventually lead to a saner situation and one which will in the end commend itself to the public at large."

Dean Mendell's observation can apply to any organization which seeks to solve America's prohibition problem by education. The lawmakers have left something lacking. If temperance be the end, education is the surest means to that end.

It has been developed that a city official of New York made a goodly-sized "killing" by securing for $500 an option on 261 lots about a site he learned by being "on the inside" the city board of education had chosen for a new school building. Still, he probably isn't the only official who has used public office for private gain.

Leaders of Civilization.

The entire civilized world is acutely conscious of an irreparable loss in the death of Dr. Albert A. Michelson, physicist. Ohio mourns his death particularly. It was Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland that gave Dr. Michelson his first professorship.

There is an unusual quality in the world's grief over Dr. Michelson's passing. Society often is consoled by faith that its distinguished members can be replaced, but not in the case of men whose achievements mark them as more than contemporary leaders. Dr. Michelson undoubtedly will be recognized as one of the leaders of all civilization.

Other outstanding men will build upon the foundation of Dr. Michelson's discoveries in the field of physics as he built upon previous discoveries. The structure of actual knowledge built by man is intricately interrelated, and each single part is essential to the whole.

Dr. Michelson was responsible for many devices used by the United States during the World war to protect the ships of his adopted country from attack by the country of his birth, Germany. He was a graduate of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis.

Dr. Michelson's last big job, the accurate measurement of the velocity of light, still goes on under the supervision of his colleagues. He will be credited with the result, however, for it was he who devised the machinery to produce it. A great man, one whose stature defies measurement by his contemporaries—he will be better known centuries later.

Editorial Opinion.

FROM THE PAST.

At a recent meeting of the Mediaeval Academy of America in New York, Professor Dana C. Munro, of Princeton, dealt with the nature of war propaganda in the great days of chivalry and romance, more especially in the period of the Crusades. War propaganda and the exposure of its lies is a familiar subject, but most of us think of it only in terms of 1914-1918. Certainly, it was then that it did reach its peak in systematization and psychological boldness. But from Dr. Munro's remarks one can realize that the matter, the manner and intent of wartime propaganda, a form of "vital lie," have been much the same through the ages.

In the war against Islam it seems to have attained to considerable diversity and refinement. All the groundwork for the later methodical poisoning and hypertrophying of national passions was laid in those days of high deeds in the East. Stories of frightful atrocities were widely circulated; the Moslems were pictured first as ridiculous and cowardly fighters and next as dreadfully immoral and dangerous people. Their prophet was made the subject of all kinds of stories. His private life was assailed, his sanity impunged. The whole faith of the Moslems was pictured as one of unrelieved and subtle viciousness, just as not so long ago the writings of Nietzsche and even those of Kant were seized upon to "explain" the particular historical vileness of Germany.

In these things may be seen the far-distant counterparts of the brave work of high-pressure patriotism that was carried on intensively in all nations during the last war. Professor Munro also said that many of the Christians, after coming in actual contact with the Moslems, discovered how baseless most of the stories were. But, he added, these first-hand accounts made no headway against the common beliefs nourished by campaigns of official information about the enemy. This shows that even a warfare which most of us consider to be romantic and thrilling and sincere by comparison with the late mechanical shambles was in need of artificial stimulation. Even for the Crusades many had to be shocked and lied into taking down their shields and lances.—Baltimore Sun.

AGE OR ETERNAL YOUTH?

The presence in this country of Sir James Jeans, eminent British scientist and writer, is hailed in some quarters as an indication that another round is to be fought in the "scientific war" being waged by those who hold with Sir James and Herr Einstein that the universe probably is running down, and those who hold with Professor R. A. Millikan that, on the contrary, the universe continually is undergoing a process of rejuvenation.

As we understand it, Sir James is of the opinion that perpetual rejuvenation of the universe without loss is as much contrary to nature as perpetual motion is; and while he is not dogmatic, for really topnotch scientists seldom are when they have a lot of unknown quanties to reckon with, still he defends his position with considerable vigor as occasion arises.

Professor Millikan and his fellows think they have pretty good evidence, borne to them by the cosmic rays, that while disintegration is going on in one part of the universe, rehabilitation always is proceeding in another, in a way that balances things, so that the cycle of life keeps on at full strength and will continue to keep on forever.

As an eastern newspaper writer on things scientific remarks, the view taken by Dr. Millikan is the older and more popular one. In peculiar garb it has been taught in philosophical India for ages. For most people, it seems necessary to a belief in the everlasting nature of eternity. Sir James Jeans and Herr Einstein are, in a manner of speaking, heretics and rank innovators who are upsetting all historic notions and all theories about the indefinite persistence of life, which somehow or other have a strong, comforting attraction for human beings, even when they do not anticipate individual participation. But the two are very attractive and valuable heretics, for whether they are right or are wrong, they are stimulating thought regarding an abstruse matter in a way that almost "populiarizes" it, and there isn't anything the world needs to learn to do more than it needs to think.—Detroit Free Press.

War on All Disease.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There was leprosy in Egypt three or four thousand years before the beginning of the Christian era. A study of early leprosy appears to confine it to Egypt, the Orient and India. In the eleventh and twelfth centuries the disease spread all over Europe. This was attributed to the returning Crusaders.

Leprosy is rarely found in this country, but sufficiently to warrant knowing about it. It is called by the doctors a chronic infectious disease, caused by a specific germ.

It attacks particularly the skin and the nervous system. There may be thickening, ulceration, or numbness of the skin. Ulceration and actual gangrene are common effects.

Since the disease is a constitutional one, it may affect any organ or tissue of the body. It runs a slowly progressive course.

For many centuries leprosy was believed to be caused by an evil spirit. It was greatly feared. All countries adopted measures for the control of the disease. Since little was known concerning the actual cause, its victims were outcasts, living in leper colonies.

In 1871, a scientists, Dr. Hansen, described what he named "bacillus leprae." This agent is now universally accepted as the cause of the disease. Leprosy results from inoculation with this germ.

Such factors as heredity, climate and mode of living, as well as occupation, are important in considering the development of this condition. But without the specific germ there can be no leprosy.

While it might possibly be transmitted by casual contact from one individual to another, this is rarely the way it is acquired. Nevertheless, all precautions are taken against this possibility. It is for this reason that lepers, in certain stages of the disease, are not allowed to remain at home.

In the Philippines, where many cases have been found, the lepers are assembled on a remote island, far from the mainland and visited only by officials and doctors. This particular colony and the one in Louisiana are located in the ideal climate. There the patients receive adequate care and attention.

Great strides have been made in the prevention and cure of this terrible malady. There still remains a great deal to be learned.

At present, a study of the value of Chaulmoogra oil is being made. This oil appears to have been used successfully in many cases of leprosy and may ultimately prove of untold value. Its true worth is not yet determined.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum.

Finding the Pole.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

To the layman, the finding of some imaginary object on the surface of the earth does not mean anything very exalted. He would probably guess that the thing to do would be to take a map and a compass and, by means of the compass, and knowing land on the ground, determine the position plotted on the map.

Unfortunately, the matter is quite so simple. The earth is an oblate spheroid, and is divided by scientists into lines running naturally around it, "parallels" of latitude and longitude, as though they are not really parallel. Positions have to be determined by these observations on the sun with a sextant, just as a navigator does in sailing over the ocean. These observations have to be taken at known positions on the earth's surface, and at known hours. Then, by means of tables of the greatest accuracy and indispensable mathematical formulas, the required positions may be determined.

There are two methods employed by navigators in determining the successive positions of the ship. These methods are called, respectively, after the methods employed, the dead reckoning method and the astronomical method.

First, take the dead reckoning method. Let us suppose a previous position of the ship is known. Then by measuring the distance, necessarily a curved line, and the direction, it will be possible to determine a new position of the ship.

Second, the astronomical method requires that observations be made upon the sun, or other of the heavenly bodies. It is not necessary to combine the method with the dead reckoning method, although this is frequently done. The object of using both methods is to secure grater accuracy, and to have the two results serve as a check upon each other.

The simplest problem of all is to determine one's position on land. The advantages arises from being able to remain indefinitely at one point and secure the desired number of observations, enough to secure accuracy.

A more complicated problem is that of determining the position of a dirigible or an airplane, since the observer is in constant motion in making the observations unless, under favorable circumstances, he is able to effect a landing.

Consider, for example, the methods employed by Peary in making an overland journey to the North pole in 1909. He followed closely a meridian from the base camp at Cape Columbia, using dead reckoning for direction and distance, the object being to remain on the meridian. From time to time he would check his distance by taking meridian sights on the sun. In this way he finally succeeded in reaching Camp Morris K. Jesup, near the pole. Here he took a meridian sight on the sun, which showed him that he had covered a distance which would have covered a distance which would have carried him exactly to the pole—provided, of course, he had made no error in his dead reckoning.

As yet, he was unable to state, from this first observation on the sun, just where he was located on the earth's surface. Eighteen hours later, however, he took another observation on the sun, in a direction at right angles to that of his former observation. From this he was enabled to determine that his camp was five miles from the pole. This determination was a check on dead reckoning, but in no way dependent on it. Taken quite independently, these observations on the sun told him just where he was on the earth's surface, regardless of how he had managed to get there.—Copyright, 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Thad Stevens and Sam Galloway.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Though Thad Stevens was never a resident of Ohio—probably never even visited the state—he exerted indirectly a very helpful influence on the work of establishing the Ohio public school system. A native of Vermont, his first employment as a young man was as a teacher at York, Pennsylvania. Then he studied law and began practice at Gettysburg.

He was in early but active practice when Sam Galloway, a native of Gettysburg, was in the public schools there. He happened to be present at a school commencement when young Galloway gave a graduation oration, and was greatly impressed with his ability. That boy, he said to friends, would be heard from.

He kept in touch with Galloway as long as the latter remained in Gettysburg, and even after he came to Ohio there were exchanges of letters between them. In 1833 Stevens was a member of the Pennsylvania legislature, and there led the supporters of the school system of that state in their defense against a bill to repeal the law under which it operated. It was one of the greatest efforts of his public life and saved the school system.

Of course a copy of his speech found its way to Galloway in his Ohio home, and it made a great impression on him. It happened that the first important office that Galloway was elected to was that of secretary of state, and at that time the secretary of state was ex-officio state commissioner of common schools. Mr. Galloway made it almost the chief function of the office under his administration, and work for making the school system of the state mean something, became a passion with him. In public addresses and written reports on the subject he called attention of the people of state to the inefficiency of the school system as it was, and showed them what might be made of it. It is not too much to say that Mr. Galloway at the time he thus came incidentally in touch with the Ohio school system did as much for its development as any other man who ever had anything to do with it.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, May 12—The picturesque patter of the cheap cafes has spread to the glorified soda fountains. Along the Bowery many waiters call out their orders through the pass hole to the kitchen. The jargon varies in different sections of the country.

On the Bowery, "One in the dark" is coffee without cream. "Dude a java" is coffee with milk. "Adam and Eve on a raft" is poached eggs on toast. "Five-minute vest spotters are eggs boiled five minutes. "Synagogue trims" are fried ham and eggs. "A left over" is mashed potatoes. And so on.

Soda-jerking slang has the same mysterious lingo. Even at those frescoed fountains where the attendants suggest the magazine pictures of football heroes in mufti it is indulged. They do not shout so loud, but it may easily be heard by the customer.

Here are a few that seem to be somewhat standardized:

Hot chocolate—snow shoe.
Lemonade—Thirty-one.
Orangeade—Forty-one.
Small coca cola—shoot one.
Large coca cola—stretch one.
Malted milk—burn one. Derived from electricity used in mixing.
Plain sundae—glob.
Lemon phosphate—spiker.
Soda to take out—a runner.
Chocolate and vanilla sundae—mystery.
Pineapple sundae—a Chicago.

Incidentally, the soda mixer is not only highly paid if expert—in a few cases $55 a week—but he has a contact with the public that leads to better things. Two employed at Fifth avenue fountains recently were picked for jobs that paid around $10,000 a year each.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, May 12—President Hoover's assistant secretary of the navy—Ernest Lee Jahncke, of New Orleans—usually expresses his opinion on various subjects in blunt fashion.

All along the gulf coast, where he has sailed his yacht and boats, they call him "Commodore." He likes the title. And as second in command of Uncle Sam's navy, he delights in the ceremony accorded him when he appears in official capacity.

So, the other night when he went on the air to talk about politics, with particular reference to southern politics, Jahncke spoke his mind in sailor-like fashion. He was there apparently to strengthen the position of Republican leaders who have been seeking to bring the South into the Republican fold.

"The appeal to reason which lies in every private and public act of President Hoover," he said, "shook the traditional complacency of the country to its foundations in 1928, when the Solid South was broken."

And, he further added:

"The benefits that have accrued to Texas, North Carolina, Florida and Virginia already point the way to the greater good which will come from the firm establishment of the two-party system as part of the governmental equipment of those commonwealths."

Jahncke's zeal and enthusiasm in the past perhaps have caused his motives to be misunderstood. His eagerness to get things done tempts him at times to take short cuts, and these have not always been appreciated.

He is a great advocate of the development of an active two-party system in the South. He apparently firmly believes that it is essential to the welfare of the country, "and indispensable for the preservation of our American institutions."

And he knows no better way of realizing this goal than by real action.

Jahncke, tall, erect of bearing, and gray-haired, presents a distinguished appearance. He loves the dramatic and obviously enjoys the show of gold braid that is brought out when he comes around as assistant secretary of the navy.

But with it all, he is quite human. Newspapermen assigned to the navy in Washington know that his door is open at all times to them, that he enjoys having them come in for a smoke and a chat.

He is a yachting enthusiast. Frequently he motors over to the naval academy at Annapolis, procures a sail boat and sails for hours on the Severn river and out into Chesapeake bay.

On such excursions he declines aid from the academy. He insists that he command and sail his own boat. His only companion on such cruises is his son, a midshipman at the academy.

Mr. More stayed the second night with Dickie. The others tried to sleep, but Frances would not leave the sick room for a moment. At 6 next morning Nora tiptoed in to see the baby sleeping and Dr. More, who had had neither time to shave or change his clothes for two nights, looking dark and gaunt. Fran had fallen asleep in her chair. Fergus More took Nora outside the door to tell her he thought Dickie was going to pull through.

When Nora and Fran met they hugged each other convulsively without a word. For the first time Fran broke down, tears glittering down her thin cheeks.

"I'll never ask anything more," Fran said with intense happiness, "except to keep him." She brushed at her wet cheeks. "I'll have to go back to the office in the morning, I suppose."

"I'll be here," Nora told her.

Fran cried, "I don't know what we would have done without you!"

In the living room Hallie was sewing with a kind of frantic haste. "I'll never laugh at Fergus More again," she said.

She began to tell Nora about him. He was the son of a country minister, the youngest of four boys. His oldest brother had been killed in the war; one was an engineer in South America, one had gone west. Fergus had had to work his way through college and teach for a year in order to go to medical school. He was, Hallie said, brilliant and modest and full of sturdy faith in himself. He was bound to have a future. But perhaps, Nora thought, Hallie was biased because he had saved the baby's life. How anyone who was brilliant could hang a shingle out on Dove street and expect to have any future was one of Hallie's crazily optimistic ideas.

For several days the baby could not be left for a moment. Nora stayed with him while Dr. More was in and out all the time. She marvelled at his sureness, at the skill with which he handled Dickie. Fran had to go to work next morning; for no matter what happened rent must be paid and food must be bought.

After the long days with Dickie, Nora would go to her attic room, stumbling with weariness, falling asleep almost as soon as she had gotten into bed.

At the end of the week when Dickie was on the highroad toward recovery a letter came from Damon

"Dear Nora:

"We are sorry you could not come to us. Father and I are going away for a change. He needs the rest and I feel I cannot let him go alone. I will see you, I hope, upon my return.

"Damon Van Vorst"

Nora read and reread the cool words. Damon had not even said where they were going, nor for how long.

For the first time in her life, Nora had done an utterly selfish thing; she had thought first of other people. And it had brought her this.

She was caught fast in the red brick house, in this very life of uncertainty, where there was nothing solid under her feet. Poverty made each one of them insecure, and she, Nora, would have to be uprooted and thrown into any strange current that might carry away her own people.

Alice came over and leaned against Nora, her eyes lifted adoringly to Nora's face. But Nora stood up without noticing her, and went out into the hall. Dr. More, coming out of his office found her there. He held out his hand. He looked so boyish and his sensitive lips smiled at her, his eyes on her forlorn face.

"You've been a brick. I thought when you first came you were just a miserable little snob. But I take it back. Forgive me, will you?"

She turned and looked at him; the splendor of her eyes when she was angry was startling.

"I am a snob, I meant to be. I'm only here because I haven't any other place to go. Now will you leave me alone?"

She saw him go marching down the hall, his shoulders thrown back, scorn in his every step. He went into his office and closed the door. Nora turned and wept into the old coats.

To Be Continued.

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

IT was bright and bammy again this morning. It is kind of funny to think that sometimes winter is all over the place, and then that the place that was so cold and slippery can be warm and covered with lilacs and roses and everything.

I let Jubilee down by his rope and got my short britches wrapped around me and went down and Feeble was already there, and the rest of the bunch came whilst I was getting my work done, and when I was going in the house to strain the milk my mother was just coming out to look at her flower beds. That is the first thing she does every morning and the last thing she does at night. I think she counts the buds that are coming on the roses and looks to see if there are any new ones coming, and just as I got my foot on the kitchen step my mother hollered, and I looked up to the corner of the house to where she was and she was standing there with both hands clasped to her bosom and looking at a rose on one of her bushes, and she told me to call my ant, but my ant had heard her, and she and the whole family came out to see what was the matter and they found her looking at the rose, and they all looked at it and so did I and the bunch and it was almost as big as a cabbage and and a sort of reddish-yellowish-goldish color, and then she stooped down to smell of it, and then she looked at it with her nose almost against it, and then she looked at my father and said, "I suppose you think you fooled me, but I knew it all the time!" and she marched into the house with her chin in the air, and my father looked at the rose and then he unwrapped some thin wire that fastened it to one of the rose stalks and the rose was made of paper!

We certainly did holler, and we were still talking about it and standing around when my mother put her head out of the door and said, "Come and get it," and when we got in the kitchen my father put his arm around my mother and said, "You don't think I did that, do you, honey?" she didn't say anything, and then I noticed there was tears on her eyelashes, and just then Youniss took the rose out of my father's hand and asted Feeble, "Isn't that the same rose I saw at your house yesterday?" And Feeble looked at it and said, "Why it surely is! I wonder how it got over here!" and then everyone laughed and my father looked pleased and so did my mother. I think she was glad my father hadn't played a trick on her, and I know he was glad. My grandfather took the rose and made a low bow and presented it to my ant and said to her "It is just like you." And my ant said, "It is only an imitation." And my grandfather said, "Well?" and my ant threw the rose in his face and gave him a look that made his false teeth rattle.

We don't want to reform others for their good, but because their behavior plagues us. Pure selfishness.

ITCHING ENDS WHEN ZEMO TOUCHES SKIN

—thousands say. It's wonderful the way soothing, cooling Zemo brings relief to skin which itches and burns. Even in most severe cases, itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the tender and inflamed surface. To draw out local infection and help to clear away unsightly blemishes, we know of nothing better than invisible Zemo. Always keep this family antiseptic on hand. Use it freely. "Heart of a Wife"

Madge's Fear of the Presence of Chinese in the Farmhouse

IF IT HAD not been for the menace of the Chinese searchers for Marions sandalwood lockbox with its secret compartment, Mrs Ticer's query if I had been "scared" by "a Chink on the road" would have seemed to me the height of absurdity, for nothing so trivial ever frightens me. But as it was terror clutched my throat so tautly that for a moment I could not answer her.

She followed up her self reproach for having spoken of the matter by a rapid explanation.

"Your father cautioned both Ticer and me and Jerry that if we saw anything suspicious along this road we were to come to him with it, but under no circumstances to bother you. He said you knew that there was danger from some Chinks that wanted something in the house, but that he'd fixed things so they could not get near the farmhouse, and that above all things he didn't want you worried, and here I've spoiled things."

"Be sensible, I urged her, forcing a smile as well as the words to my lips which felt dry and leathery. "You know how fussy my father is over anything annoying me now, but I'm not a baby you know."

"No, but you had one not so very long ago," she said, with a friendly anxious smile, "and everybody is worried about you because you simply will not 'stay put!' You're doing altogether too much."

"I'll grant that for the sake of argument," I told her, putting my terror aside with a firm hand, "but as long as you already have spoken about this Chinese on the road, why not tell me about him. I did not see anybody this morning, but all the way from the place where the car broke down, along that thicket, you know, I had the queerest feeling that there was someone watching me from inside the fence. I was furious at myself for being nervous, but I really felt frightened."

Ticer's Suspicions

"I don't blame you," she said, "and I haven't a doubt in the world there was somebody inside there. At least Ticer said he saw a fellow he was sure was a Chink coming out from that thicket at the corner this morning. When he saw Ticer he scuttled back in again, and Ticer he just kept on going, and pretended not to see him, hoping he'd stay in there until he'd told your father about him. He just came up to the house and was going right over, but I told him he'd better wait a half an hour, because your father never gets up so early as this, and it wasn't important enough to get him out of bed, especially as Ticer wasn't sure it was a Chink he saw, it might have been just an ordinary tramp. But he'll go up as soon as he gets the car".

"That will be time enough, I'm sure," I said. "Father was terribly tired last night, and I would not like to have him disturbed this morning before his usual time of arising. I have something more important on my mind. May I use your telephone in a few minutes?"

"Of course," she said heartily. "But—" with a keen look at my face, "is it anything I could possibly telephone for you? I'd like for you to lie still for awhile."

"Thank you, that's just what I'm going to do for five or ten minutes," I told her. "Then I shall be quite all right, and unfortunately it's something I must telephone myself. I—I forgot it before I left the house. If the car had been all right, I could have gone back home and phoned from there, but I just didn't feel equal to walking another minute."

"I'd have taken you over my knee, if you had and I'd found out about it," she said heartily. "Let me make you a cup of fresh coffee, and bring you some of my doughnuts. Of course, I know they're not as good as Katie's, but they might taste good if you're tired."

The Time for Tact

There was in her voice the mixture of thinly disguised complacency over her own culinary skill, and the jealousy over things domestic to which has always existed between my little maid and my neighbor, making me feel sometimes as if charting the course between Scylla and Charybdis would be child's play for me. I knew what I was expected to say, and I said it promptly, and with emphasis.

"You know that I think there aren't better coffee and doughnuts in the world than yours," I told her truthfully, although Katie's are equally as good. They both are cooks par excellence. "And after I telephone I shall be glad to have some. Just now you must excuse me. I have just breakfasted."

"Then I'll wait to make the coffee until after you've phoned," she said. "It's no good unless it's freshly made. And you can't start home till the car's fixed anyway, for ours is out of commission, and you mustn't walk another step. I'll put the water on the stove—it takes so long to boil with my slow fire and then I'll go tell Ticer about the car. You telephone whenever you get ready. I probably won't be back before you do. I might as well gather my eggs while I'm out there."

It was a tactful if obvious subterfuge, her way of telling me that I would have no listener to my telephone conversation and when she had left me I lay motionless with kindly thoughts of my good neighbor warming my spirit, until the clock pointed to nine. Then I went to the telephone and called the number in New York at which I expected to find Martha Halkett.
